

Photonews: Sept. 2026

Jewish worshippers pray for forgiveness during Selichot prayers at the Tomb of Rabbi Shimon Bar Yochai in Meron, northern Israel, early on September 4, 2026, ahead of the Jewish New Year. Selichot are traditionally recited between midnight and dawn during the month of Elul. Photo by David Cohen/Flash90

General view of a water desalination facility near Rishon LeZion, central Israel, September 2, 2026. Photo by Yossi Aloni/Flash90

Israel Prison Service Central Unit officers operate in the West Bank city of Nablus, seizing and destroying lathes suspected of being used to manufacture and repair weapons, early on September 3, 2026. Photo by Chaim Goldberg/Flash90

A general view of the Druze town of Daliyat al-Karmel, located on Mount Carmel in northern Israel. Daliyat al-Karmel is one of the largest Druze communities in Israel and is known for its Druze culture and traditional market, August 31, 2026. Photo by Rachel Alroey/Flash90

An Israeli fighter jet is seen in the skies over central Israel, September 3, 2026. Photo by Nati Shohat/Flash90

Ultra-Orthodox protesters demonstrate against a cafe operating on Shabbat and clash with Israeli police, while secular protesters hold a counter-demonstration in support of the cafe in central Jerusalem, August 29, 2026. (Oren Ben Hakoon/Flash90)